

Late Vacationists Are Home Refreshed From Fall Trips

Perennial Question About Best Holiday Time Recalled

By KNUTE FRITZ

Thru the lagging months of summer, thru the fading days of fall and into early winter, vacationists have come winding home. The late vacationists are reviving almost forgotten memories of the ones who sought seclusion from work earlier in the year with pleasant stories of autumnal beauties. Enviously they are heard, and which brings to mind the eternal question: "Next year, shall I take my vacation in the early summer or in the late fall?"

Beauty of landscape and natural scenery abounds, regardless of the time of year; it is always there, if looked for. Some admire the quiet serenity of late fall, like the beauty of age and poised calmness of after life.

They Are Home Again
The past week has seen the return of many, who, either of necessity or of desire, have taken on the freedom from work in the waning weeks of the fall season. Throughout Torrance, men are returning to work, wives and mothers to their homes, putting in order interrupted life.

Frank Stewart and his wife have homed from the northern parts of the state, the Dale Worsleys from Yellowstone Park, Harvey Flashbaugh and his family from the Pacific Northwest, the Joe Stewards from Alabama, Peter Peterson and his family are back from Minnesota, J. Benzon from the desert and mountain, Joe Terrell and his wife from North Carolina, Fred Rice from a trip to Ontario, Canada, the A. Boyers from Owen's Valley; Jess Portlock and his family enjoyed the autumn beauties of Yosemite Park.

THE JOPPA DOOR by Hope Williams

This is the story of Katherine Thiel, a young German girl, who planned to make her life different, and who essentially succeeded thru her own character, full of beauty and integrity. When you first see her standing before you, modest, quiet, plain, shining with soap and eager to please, you do not find her so very interesting. But as the story progresses her character, under the laborious life of the immigrant in a strange and harsh land, takes on overtones of spiritual strength far from narrowness. Any reader will find the story of Katherine Thiel curiously moving, but so quiet and understanding is it that its beauty steals upon one unaware.

WIND FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Trygve Gulbransen

Those who enjoyed "Beyond Sing the Woods"—and there were so many, since it ranked a leading best seller in no less than nine countries—will welcome this new story "Wind From the Mountains". Tho it is complete, in itself and full of beauty and virility, it is doubly interesting to follow the development of Ol Dag of Bjorndal, head of an ancient Norwegian family whom we met in the preceding story; to know the story of Adelaide, his daughter-in-law, and young Dag, his son.

CHILDREN OF STRANGERS by Lyle Saxton

On the Louisiana plantation where this story takes place, there are three kinds of people: the white planter's family, negro share croppers and free mulattoes. These last are a race apart and differ from those elsewhere. Their ancestors were land owners and slave owners, once as cultured and rich as white planters. With pride in their French descent and Catholic traditions increased by generations of marriage among themselves, these mulattoes have become a clan governed by customs of their own, but they, the children of strangers, are isolated from whites and blacks alike.

The author has put these people into a story which beautifully transcribes the pride, quiet dignity, and poignancy of their lives. The central character is "Fannie" Vidal, at 16 the prettiest girl in the community. It is a simple story but as genuine and moving as it is unpretentious.

When you are away from home, nothing seems quite so welcome as your speaking voice. So reassuring... so much more personal than any other form of communication. Why not have a "telephone date" with your family each night?

DETOUR

Col'm Under Construction By BETSY BYRNES

Now let us sing a little lay About the hats we wear today. The darn'dest things are a la mode! They stop the traffic on the road!

Some of this season's creations do look a bit, well, er, different. If you take out some of yesterday's snapshots and look at the headgear, however, you won't think we are doing so badly today.

QUESTIONS

Say! When and where were hats invented, anyway?

We speak of Mussolini as Il Duce, and of Hitler as Der Fuhrer. What do these appellations mean?

And do you ask the grocery clerk for an EAST cake or a YEAST cake?

TODAY'S PROVERB

"If the best man's faults were written on his forehead, he would wear his hat down over his eyes." —Gaelic.

ANSWERS

The first hats were made in Paris. They were manufactured, not by a Frenchman, but a Swiss, in 1404. The first head coverings were hoods, which date back to primitive times.

Il Duce, translated from the Italian, becomes The Commander. The Leader is the English equivalent of Der Fuhrer.

Nine chances out of ten, you ask the grocery clerk for an EAST cake. Ask, instead, for a YEAST cake, pronouncing the letter Y, if you would be correct.

ANSWERS

"Burly, dozing humble-bee, Where thou art is clime for me. Let them sail for Porto Rique, Far-off heats through seas to seek; I will follow thee alone, Thou animated torrid-zone!" —Emerson.

He went home after having his wounds treated.

Mrs. Agnes Brunette, Los Angeles, who entered Tuesday for minor surgery; little Mary Dickinson, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Dickinson of Redondo Beach, who entered last Wednesday for asthma treatment and returned home yesterday.

Arthur P. Ferguson, 1557 West 218th street, entered Tuesday for a major operation which was performed yesterday. Ferguson, who has been employed at the Pacific Smelting company for a number of years, is reported doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Myrtle Herzog of Gardena was received Sunday for surgery. Mrs. Inez Rinker of Redondo Beach entered Saturday for an appendectomy, and Boyd McDonald, Columbia Steel worker who lives at 1104 Arlington avenue, was received yesterday morning for observation.

Letters Wanted Backing Cabrillo Improvement

"The city council on Oct. 25 showed its approval of Cabrillo's improvement by passing a motion favoring the elimination of the right-of-way boundary curbs and paving the rail strip. We are very grateful to the council for this action.

"Now we call upon the citizens to assist in this worthy civic cause. Cabrillo's improvement will be of benefit to everyone in Torrance and will do much to make that important business and traffic artery the street it should be—free of an unsightly center lane which narrows the available space on both sides. I hope residents will flood us with letters approving our objective so that when we go before the council again and later to the Pacific Electric we can show a united front for an improved street that the entire city can use with safety and pride."

Any communications concerning this project which are addressed to The Herald will be promptly turned over to Thompson and Miller.
